expand your horizons with a freeride powder session combining Japan's legendary snowfall, culture, food and more...

SASS Japan's freeride powder session in early January offers independent young adult clients the opportunity to embark on a fully guided experience to Japan's northern island (Hokkaido). Taking advantage of the legendary snowfall in January, SASS is based at Kiroro Resort, offering the best access to off-piste and backcountry terrain. Kiroro is located just 30 minutes from the historic seaside town of Otaru and also lacks the crowds of Niseko and provides a more authentic Japanese cultural experience.

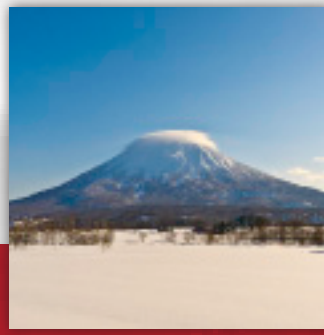

Athletes have the ability to choose how they want to spend their day on the mountain. Our guide staff works to create opportunities to develop skills in powder and help each athlete accomplish his or her goals.

UNDER-18 OPTIONS INCLUDE:

lap the trees off the lift hike the ridge behind the hotel party in a local farmhouse check out a japanese arcade night ski when its dumping avalanche scenario practice pillow lines in the sidecountry summit and shred a volcano road laps to the ocean sushi in Otaru

soak in a natural onsen steep chutes and spine lines open pow bowls
